

CALL FOR PAID INTERNS: CLIMATE SECURITYCENTRE FOR NATIONAL SECURITY STUDIES, BENGALURU

The Centre for National Security Studies (CNSS) is looking for full-time paid interns to support research on Climate Security. This is a rare opportunity to be directly involved in the creation of significant publications and gain valuable insights into the dynamics of climate security.

CNSS is a renowned research institution committed to deepening the understanding of traditional and non-traditional national security challenges, including climate security in India and the world.

Minimum duration of the internship shall be six months. The intern shall be responsible for conducting in-depth research on Climate Security issues, assist in drafting, editing, and fact-checking of publications, and collaborating on developing key arguments and insights on the subject. The intern shall work onsite at the CNSS office near New BEL Road, Bengaluru.

Applicants shall be above 21 years of age and enrolled or recent post graduates of a relevant academic programme (e.g., climate studies, environment studies, sustainable development etc). They should possess strong research skills demonstrated through college research dissertations, independent papers etc., and be familiar with climate security issues and policies.

Applicants shall email their Resume, Letter of Intent, and Writing Sample of 1000 words on 'COP29: Financing Climate Action' to ppsarma_cnss@msruas.ac.in. Please write "INTERNSHIP IN CLIMATE SECURITY" in the subject line. Shortlisted applicants shall be intimated by email.
